

Basic Example of an architecture that handle communications between sensors, servers and databases

